Biographical Note

James W. Winkelman (1935-2023) completed his undergraduate degree at the University of Chicago in 1955. He went on to receive his M.D. from Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in 1959, and worked as a professor of pathology at Harvard Medical School from 1986 to 2002. Winkelman patented over 20 medical technologies and published hundreds of journal articles over the course of his career. This collection contains coursebooks, student publications, and other tokens of Winkelman's time in Chicago, including literature from the Communist Party headquarters in Chicago and an anti-McCarthy protest pin.
